Internet Speeds

Internet speed recommendations (Per Device)

Activity	Usage required	Our recommended speed
Email	1Mbps	1Mbps
Web browsing	3-5Mbps	5-10Mbps
Social media	3-5Mbps	10Mbps
Video calls	3-5Mbps	10-20Mbps
HD streaming	5-10Mbps	10-20Mbps
Online gaming	3-6Mbps	25-35Mbps
4K streaming	25Mbps	35Mbps

How many people or devices are using your network?

An important factor to consider in your search for the ideal internet speed is how many users and devices are on your network in a given day. Your household may only consist of one or two people, but it could be hosting 10 to 15 devices (laptops, cellphones, gaming consoles, smart TVs, smart home gadgets, you name it). If you're using these devices consistently, then you'll want to ensure your internet speed has the bandwidth to cover them all.

Video is often the biggest bandwidth hog, so aim for an internet plan that can accommodate your viewing habits. If it's applicable, think of the times you've streamed Netflix or taken a video call from Mom, then imagine everything else that could have been happening on your network at the same time and use the chart above as a rough guide.

For instance, if you live alone and like to scroll on your phone while you stream it in 4K on your TV, you'd want at least 35Mbps for smooth playback and another 10Mbps to keep up the conversation on Instagram. A 50Mbps internet plan might be the minimum for you to be close to your sweet spot.

TV STREAMING DEVICE OPTIONS

Smart TVs

Many smart TVs these days, especially those that support 4K and HDR, will likely come equipped with an internet connection and streaming apps available. However, if you don't have a smart TV, or you're looking for the best experience possible, a separate device might be just what you need.

Best for: Direct Internet connection

Amazon Fire TV Cube

If you have an HDR-compatible TV and you want to use Alexa to its fullest extent, grab an Amazon Cube. Hook it up to your TV and enjoy 16 GB of storage. Plus, it's 4K capable right out of the box.

Best for: Amazon Alexa Owners, Amazon Prime Subscribers

Amazon Fire TV Stick 4K

Much less expensive but still just as great is the Amazon Fire TV Cube.

It has less robust Alexa capabilities and no storage, but you'll have access to all the HDR/4K streaming functionality of the cube in a smaller, more affordable package.

Best for: Amazon Prime Subscribers, Cord-Cutters

Roku Premiere +

Roku Premiere + is like Roku, but designed better and supports HDR and 4K.

This set hooks into your TV via a separate but included HDMI cable. You'll then have access to Netflix, Hulu, Amazon Prime, and more.

Best for: Cord-Cutters on Budget, New to Streaming Tech

Google Chromecast Ultra

Google's streaming plugs directly into your TV with no hassle.

Supporting HDR and 4K, you can access popular streaming services and Google's Play Store, which has many more apps and services to choose from.

Best for: Fans of Google Products, Hands-Free

Apple TV® 4K

Apple's popular Apple TV product now supports 4K and HDR. Plus, it also supports Dolby Atmos for a truly stellar sound experience.

You'll have access to all the big streaming services, certain on-demand channels, apps, the ability to control everything with your voice via Siri.

Best for: Fans of Apple Products, iPhone Users

OTHER WAYS TO STREAM:

- Mobile Phones (Ex: iPhone)
- Tablets (Ex: iPad)
- Gaming Consoles (Ex: PlayStation 5)
- PC's/Laptops
- Nvidia Shield
- Casting/Phone Mirroring on TV

ROKU VS FIRESTICK: KEY TAKEAWAYS:

- Roku is a better choice overall because it has more features and device options, and it has more channels/apps overall, including free content.
- Firestick is a better choice for Amazon Prime members and those who have Amazon Smart devices.

COMPARISONS:

- Prices are very similar
- Ease of Use – Leans toward Roku
- Similarities with Remote Controls, Smart Phone Apps, Voice Assistant
- Roku seems to offer more streaming content (channels)
- Both offer similar video quality

Connect Non-Smart TV to Internet Connection to Stream

Tombigbee Fiber Internet

Steps:

- Plug streaming device into HDMI input in TV. Plug the USB power cable into a power supply (USB slot in TV or wall adapter)
- Turn TV on and go to the HDMI input where the streaming device is plugged in.
- Setup streaming device by connecting to the internet (Wi-Fi). You will need an email account to register your device.
- The device may go through some updates.
- Select streaming services/apps to initially install. You can install more after installation is complete.
- You will either need to log into your streaming apps or create an account for your streaming apps.

Connect Smart TV to Internet Connection to Stream

Tombigbee Fiber Internet

Steps:

- Turn on TV and go through initial setup on Smart TV.
- Connect Smart TV to the internet (Wi-Fi). You will need an email account to register your device.
- The device may go through some updates.
- Select streaming services/apps to initially install. You can install more after installation is complete.
- You will either need to log into your streaming apps or create an account for your streaming apps.

Notes:

- It doesn't matter where your TV is located. Only an electrical outlet is needed to power your TV.
- The most cumbersome part of this process is the setup. Setting up your device(s) may take a while.
- You can add parental controls and other profiles on smart devices to limit what others can do, see, and purchase.

LIVE TV STREAMING OPTIONS

(Paid Subscription)

YouTube TV

Best channel selection

YouTube TV has more top channels than any competitor at this price, and it was the first service to include local PBS stations -- Hulu and DirecTV Stream followed suit later. Despite a $10 price hike in January 2025, YouTube TV service has an excellent cloud DVR, including both unlimited storage and a generous nine months to watch recordings (most rivals offer 30 days). The user interface is no-nonsense, even if a little drab, and yet it offers most of the features a cable service can give you. YouTube TV is also the only one to offer surround sound on live broadcasts. YouTube TV is the exclusive home of NFL Sunday Ticket through the 2029-2030 season, with monthly payment plans available. In addition, the video streaming service has a $20 monthly upgrade that lets you watch a limited number of 4K livestreams, download DVR recordings to your devices and watch an unlimited number of simultaneous streams (up from three). While Sling TV is cheaper, YouTube TV is still worth subscribing to if you want a tightly integrated search and a great channel selection.

Top channels not available: A&E, History, Lifetime and MLB.

Hulu Plus Live TV

Best live TV streaming service with premium bundle

If you want the best mix of live streaming and on-demand, Hulu Plus Live TV is it. Its channel selection may not be as robust as YouTube TV, but it's almost there -- especially with the addition of PBS and Magnolia. Yet, it's Hulu's significant catalog of on-demand content that helps set it apart. The $83 service includes an unlimited DVR plus the ad-supported version of the Disney Bundle (Hulu Basic, Disney Plus and ESPN Plus), and if you want the ad-free bundle, the price is $96. Hulu's exclusive titles such as The Bear and Only Murders in the Building, plus its massive catalog of broadcast programming, grant it a content advantage no other service can match. Given that Hulu Plus Live TV offers you more with its live channels, it's the service to choose for live TV streaming.

Top channels not available: AMC, BBC America and NBA TV.

Sling TV Blue

Best TV streaming on a budget

If you're looking for the cheapest live TV streaming service and one that is still able to offer a usable amount of channels, then it's without a doubt Sling TV Blue. Yet, things are a little more complicated than they are for Sling's competitors. You see, Sling tenders two different $40-ish-per-month live TV streaming channel packages, Sling Orange and Sling Blue. While a number of live TV channels are common to both, Orange is essentially the ESPN/Disney package, while Blue is the Fox/Discovery package. Meanwhile, Orange & Blue combines the two offerings for $60. Further, the addition of ABC to eight markets has increased its price there to $45 -- while it remains $40 in others. As a result, Sling TV may cost up to $20 more than Philo, but it still has better channels, more options and a comparatively better live TV streaming interface. Sling is also cheaper than most other streaming services, let alone cable. In addition to a relatively affordable price, Sling TV has two new feathers in its cap: an upgraded DVR (increased to 50 hours) and a new interface (as seen above), which makes the service a lot more fun to use. While Sling doesn't have a free trial, though it is currently offering half price for the first month, but it does offer a cut-down version called Freestream with a number of included channels.

Top channels not available on Sling Blue: CBS, Animal Planet, Disney Channel, ESPN and Nickelodeon. ABC, Fox and NBC are available in select markets.

Top channels not available on Sling Orange: ABC, CBS, Fox, NBC, Animal Planet, Bravo, CNBC, Discovery Channel, Bravo, Fox News, Fox Sports 1, FX, MSNBC and USA Network.

DirecTV Stream

Best for channel flippers, sports fans

DirecTV Stream is the most expensive service at $87, but it does have some pluses, including the flipper-friendly ability to swipe left and right to change channels. The service also offers unlimited DVR capability to new users, while existing subscribers need to pay an extra $10 a month. For cord-cutters who want to follow their local NBA or MLB team, DirecTV Stream's $130 Choice package is a competitive live TV sports pick, because it has access to more regional sports networks than the competition. Additionally, DirecTV Stream includes channels some other services can't, including almost 250 local PBS stations.

Top channels not available in base package: MLB Network, NFL Network and Travel Channel.

FuboTV fubo^{TV}

There's a lot to like about Fubo -- it offers a wide selection of channels, and its sports focus makes it especially attractive to football fans of all kinds. For NFL in particular, it's one of three services, alongside YouTube TV and Hulu, with NFL Network and optional RedZone. In addition, it's also suited to NBA, NHL and MLB fans who live in an area served by one of Fubo's RSNs. The biggest hole in Fubo's lineup is the lack of Turner networks, including CNN, TNT and TBS -- especially since the latter two carry a lot of sports content. Those missing channels and the 2024 price bump that increased plans by $5 (plus additional RSN fees) make it less attractive than YouTube TV or Hulu for most viewers.

Philo philo

This $28 live TV streaming service offers a variety of channels, but it lacks sports channels, local stations and big-name news networks -- although Cheddar and BBC news are available. Philo offers bread-and-butter cable staples like AMC, Comedy Channel, Nickelodeon and Magnolia Network (formerly DIY), and specializes in lifestyle and reality programming. It now includes an unlimited cloud DVR and optional add-ons from Epix and Starz. We think most people are better off paying extra for Sling TV's superior service, but if Philo has every channel you want, it's a decent deal.
